

Handwritten text, likely bleed-through from the reverse side of the page, is oriented vertically. The text is highly illegible due to extreme contrast and blurring, but appears to contain several lines of information, possibly including a name, a date, and a short message or address. Some faint words like 'Dear' and 'Thank you' are barely discernible.